The nineteenth century is notable for its newly proclaimed emperors, from Franz I of Austria and Napoleon I in 1804, through Agustín of Mexico, Pedro I of Brazil, Napoleon III of France, Maximilian of Mexico, and Wilhelm I of Germany, to Victoria, empress of India, in 1876. These monarchs projected an imperial aura through coronations, courts, medals, costumes, portraits, monuments, international exhibitions, festivals, religion, architecture, and town planning. They relied on ancient history for legitimacy while partially espousing modernity. Projecting Imperial Power is the first book to consider together these newly proclaimed emperors in six territories on three continents across the whole of the long nineteenth century.

FEATURES

- The first book to consider newly proclaimed emperors in six territories across three continents across the whole range of the nineteenth century
- Presents well-known figures such as Napoleon I, Napoleon III, and Queen Victoria as well as lesser known ones such as Agustín of Mexico and Pedro II of Brazil
- Explains the imperial ambition behind the cities of Berlin, Paris, Vienna, and New Delhi
- Discusses how empires and their rulers are remembered today by examining the fate of imperial statues
